56% of Pre-War Level in 1932, by Last Year Had Risen to 84%

GAIN TO CONTINUE

Will Make Up for Advantage Given City Man in Post-War Years

This is the third in a series of six articles on the progress of economic recovery.

By FRANK J. WELLER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Recent increases in farm income, adding billions of dollars to the nation's purchasing power, have written, an important chapter in economic history.

Economic analysts find it significant that the farm is getting closer to the relative position as a purchaser which it held prior to changes developed during and after the world war.

In the decade after the war, farm prosperity failed to keep pace with industrial prosperity, with the result that the 30,000,000 Americans who live by tilling the soil were getting a diminishing part of the national income.

Farm income reached its peak in 1929, according to statistics of the department of agriculture, at $16,935,000,000. The 1929-30 average was only $11,528,000,000, and in 1932, the farm return was only $5,337,000,000.

Income Regained
By 1935 the total including government benefit payments, had jumped to $8,110,000,000, indicating that about 44 per cent of the drop from 1929-30 1932 had been regained, and 1936 is showing further substantial improvement. Farm income for the first quarter of this year is estimated at approximately 7 per cent over the same months of 1935.

The big rise in price levels in 1933 and 1934 was concentrated largely in farm products. So, while in 1932 the farm population had a per capita purchasing power of only 56 per cent of its pre-war level, by 1935 it had the means to buy 84 per cent of pre-war totals.

For persons off the farm the level was 84 per cent in 1932 and 93 per cent in 1935. While it is evident that not all of the relative position lost since the pre-war days has been regained, the farmer has gained much more rapidly than the city man.

Predict More Buying Power
Farm prices have fallen off a little in the past year, but income has risen further as result of large crops. Some analysts point to the danger that increased acreage, and still limited foreign outlets, might result in a serious drop in prices. On the other hand, Lois H. Bean, economic adviser to the agriculture department, says domestic purchasing power is fairly certain to expand further in 1936 and 1937, and that this will tend to support the price level.

He estimates that at the close of 1935 the level of consumer income had advanced to 80 per cent of the 1924-29 average.

The proportion of total farm production going into export channels has

RAINFALL AND SOIL

Would Create New Wealth From Vast Tracts of Cut-Over Land

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Second-growth timber from the vast pine cut-over lands of Arkansas and Louisiana was seen Monday by Harvey C. Couch, Arkansas industrial leader, as a source for a large paper-making industry.

Climate, rainfall and soil are ideal for quick growth of yellow pine, Couch told the Federal Power Commission in support of petitions seeking more waterpower rights for his utility company.

Couch said several paper concerns had promised to build plants in Arkansas "as soon as the financial horizon lifts."

Fugitive Emperor Leaves Seacoast on British Ship for Palestine

WASHINGTON—(AP)—After beating off one vicious assault by Ethiopian bandits the American minister to Ethiopia, Cornelius Van H. Engert, told Washington Monday that "the situation is growing worse" and he appealed for British assistance to protect the American legation.

Evidencing the danger threatening the tiny group of Americans still holding the legation against marauders was the serious wounding of two native women in the servants' quarters.

The American minister reported to the Department of State by wireless that he and his fellow countrymen had repelled a savage attack by native marauders on the legation early Monday.

After a brief exchange of shots the bandits were driven away, leaving one of their number either killed or wounded.

Engert, who on Sunday had informed the Department of State he intended to hold the legation building as long as possible, said in his message that the natives made a surprise attack on the legation's two back gates between 8:45 and 9 a. m.

Selassie to Palestine
LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—An authoritative source disclosed that Haile Selassie, fugitive emperor of Ethiopia, boarded the British cruiser "Emprise" at Djibouti (French Somaliland) Monday for Haifa, Palestine.

Foreigners Shot
PARIS, France—(AP)—Paul Bodard, French minister to Ethiopia, reported Monday that Ethiopian soldiers assigned to guard his legation had mutilated and turned their guns on the building.

He said several foreigners in the British legation had been wounded by the shots of bandits.

By the Associated Press
Loot and drink-crazed warriors of Ethiopia their government and emperor gone, turned Addis Ababa into a city of terror Sunday, numbering an American woman among their victims.

A mob was reported marching on the virtually unprotected American legation. The minister-resident appealed to the armed British legation for trucks to evacuate the legation if necessary.

The fact that the minister-resident in a report to Washington two hours later made no mention of the mob led to belief that the legation was safe for the time being at least.

While Emperor Haile Selassie reached sanctuary on French soil, his one-time subjects fired, pillaged and murdered.

Legations, shielding thousands of foreigners, were virtually besieged. Unconfirmed reports said more than a score of foreigners, mostly Armenians and Greeks, were slain defending their shops. A British Red Cross doctor was seriously wounded.

British soldiers fired into the wild natives, eager to raze the city before the Italians came, while evacuating the personnel and refugees of the Turkish legation.

An advance Italian native column was reported only 12 miles from the city and was expected to enter it Monday. A native motorized column was some 93 miles away.

Ethiopia "Gone"
Emperor Haile Selassie and his family were safe in Djibouti, French Somaliland but he was an exile and his proud empire was gone—Africa's last to bow to the march of European colonization.

Ending his dramatic early morning flight by train, the Negus reached Djibouti. He spent the night in the governor's palace and was reported planning to board a British destroyer Monday and go to England.

Corpses were strewn about the streets of Addis Ababa. A stray bullet pierced the roof of the American Adventist mission and killed Mrs. N. A. Studin, wife of an American missionary physician.

Tribesmen were determined to destroy the city before the Italian armies arrived. Already the retail center, the palace and other important buildings were virtual ruins. There was no government—no officials. All had fled.

Emperor Haile Selassie's flight, abandoning his "last stand" plan, was accepted in all interested quarters as marking the real end of the war.

Italian authorities have said repeatedly, however, it might take even several years to pacify completely.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

A normal baby will show the following characteristics as it grows:

1. Steady gain in weight.
2. A clear, soft, pink skin.
3. Peaceful sleep, with mouth and eyes closed.
4. A good appetite, without vomiting or spitting up.
5. Bright eyes when awake, and usually a contented expression.
6. Steady improvement in length, weight, and intelligence.
7. Springy muscular movements.
8. Regular bowel movements that are normal in color, frequency, and consistency.

The average baby weighs seven pounds at birth. However, a baby may weigh six, seven, eight or nine pounds, and still be perfectly normal. A baby who weighs five pounds or less at birth is classed as irregular or premature and requires special care.

Length of the baby also is some indication of its growth, but is not as significant a measurement as that of weight. Evergreen deficiencies in the quality and quantity of food are not likely to affect greatly the growth of the baby in length.

The baby's head grows rapidly during the first year, increasing 2½ inches in circumference. The bones of its skull are soft and easily molded in incorrect shape by permitting the baby to lie too long in one position.

There are instances in which the shape of the baby's head was wrong because the mother did not take care to see that its position was changed frequently. The baby should lie on the left side after one feeding; on the right side after the next feeding.

There are two soft spots in the baby's skull at the time of birth. The small one in the back of the head usually is hardened by growth of bone at the end of the third month.

The large one in the front of the head usually is closed at the end of 18 months. There are records of well-nourished babies, however, in whom the large soft spot in the front of the head has disappeared at the end of the twelfth month.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Many mothers, previously so observant of a regular schedule for the toddler, are prone under pressure of busy family life, to leave the two-to-six child to his own devices.

This is the guardian of child health referred to correctly to the preschool age as the "neglected age."

Perhaps the child of five or six may be allowed much latitude, but regular routine before that is not only necessary to health, but habit. And physical habit is the foundation of character.

Again I quote hourly time-tables suggested in "The Child from One to Six," the booklet issued by the Children's Bureau. Yesterday optional schedules for the second year were given. The following takes up at approximately the second birthday.

Either table is practical. One arranges for the morning nap, the other for the afternoon nap as suits the mother's convenience. As usual habits of cleanliness are emphasized.

When morning nap is desirable:

Schedule I

7:00 a. m.—Toilet. Brush teeth. Wash hands and face. Dress.

7:30 a. m.—Breakfast.

7:30 a. m.—Breakfast. Toilet for bowel movement. Wash hands. Out of doors as soon after breakfast as weather permits. Play in sun when possible.

11:00 a. m.—Toilet. Wash hands. Milk or fruit if needed. Undress for nap. Nap.

12:45 p. m.—Toilet. Wash hands and face. Dress.

1:30 p. m.—Dinner. Toilet. Wash hands.

1:30 p. m.—Out of doors as long as weather permits. Play in sun when possible.

4:45 p. m.—Toilet. Bath. (May be given in morning if more convenient).

5:15 p. m.—Supper. Toilet. Wash. Brush teeth.

6:00 p. m.—Bed. Lights out, windows open, door shut. When afternoon nap is desired.

Schedule II

7:30 a. m.—Toilet. Bath. Brush teeth. Dress.

8:00 a. m.—Breakfast. Toilet for bowel movement. Wash hands. Out of doors as soon after breakfast as weather permits. Play in sun when possible.

11:45 a. m.—Toilet. Wash hands and face.

12:00 noon—Dinner.

12:30 p. m.—Undress for nap. Toilet. Wash hands. Nap.

2:30 p. m.—Toilet. Wash hands. Dress. Milk or fruit if needed. Out of doors as long as weather permits. Play in sun when possible.

4:45 p. m.—Toilet. Wash hands.

5:00 p. m.—Supper. Undress. Toilet. Wash. Brush teeth.

6:00 p. m.—Bed. Lights out, windows open, door shut.

Regularity, cleanliness, rest, sunshine, exercise and suitable food. These are the "Bix Six," the builders of sturdy health.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

If you like tales of sinister 19th century English ins, lonely moors dark doing along the seacoast at midnight, and beautiful heroines who are just dumb enough to keep getting into dangerous messes, you ought to enjoy "Jamaica Inn," by Daphne du Maurier (Doubleday-Doran; $2.50).

This novel takes all those tried and true ingredients, stirs them up with gusto, and produces a regular old-time melodrama. It may crack a bit in spots, but it's all there—down to and including the handsome villain, who, in the end, reveals a heart of purest gold beating beneath his furry bosom.

What we get, in brief, is a lovely dangle, who, orphaned as she stands at the threshold of womanhood, has to go and live with an aunt and an uncle in a lonely inn near the sea.

This inn is a dark and mysterious sort of joint, and no mistake. Smugglers seem to hang out there, bossed by Uncle—who is six and one-half feet tall, drinks and swears mightily, and is no part of a bargain for an innocent niece—but presently it appears that something worse than smuggling is in the wind.

It develops, at last, that Uncle and his gang are shipwreckers by trade. They light false beacon fires along the coast, cause ships to run on the rocks, murder such sailors as survive, and steal the cargoes.

Our niece finds out about all this, tries to stop it, narrowly escapes a fate worse than death, and comes finally to a happy end, with all the usual melodramatic trimmings.

My Friends Are Little Lamps To Me

My friends are little lamps to me, Their radiance warms and cheers my ways. And all my pathway, dark and lone Is brightened by their rays. I try to keep them bright by faith. And never let them dim with doubt. For every time I lose a friend A little lamp goes out.—E. W.

National Music week, beginning annually the first Sunday in May, is a united effort of all organizations and individual music lovers to enrich the lives of the people through music, and is a natural outgrowth of the success of the many local music weeks, which were the pioneers in this movement, and now represents the joint efforts of nearly 140 cities and towns to improve upon their populations the importance of music in the life of both the individual and the community. It has been the policy of the Friday Music club to observe music week with appropriate programs that go to stimulate the cultural and educational advancement of our citizens, and on Sunday afternoon, at the First Methodist church, a Hymn Festival by the Junior Music clubs of the city, was presented by Mrs. R. T. White, local chairman for National Music week. The program was composed of familiar hymns, played by different members of the clubs, after the story had been told by other members, making a most

Dr. Clyde L. Fife Opens Revival Here

Well Known Evangelist Preaching Nightly at Christian Church

Dr. Clyde Lee Fife, evangelist of national reputation as a preacher, singer, concert and radio artist, preached, sang and played his way into the hearts of two big audiences at First

Dr. Clyde Lee Fife

Christian church in Hope Sunday morning and night.

He preached with what the old time preachers of the South called "unction" and from the time the text was taken to the final amen, there was no time lost.

But when, after preaching all day, he brought out a gorgeous guitar made of ebony and trimmed in gold and pearl at a cost of $410, which he uses in his songs on the world's largest radio stations, the people got the surprise of the day. They were not expecting that. "Keep a Light in Your Window Tonight" and "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be" were his two songs.

In presenting to Mrs. L. A. Davis the first Bible of the revival bringing the most people to the services Dr. Fife said:

"Mrs. Davis, I am giving to you the world's greatest book. It contains the will of Christ and the mind of God. It contains all the wisdom that the sages knew. It holds the answer for all the questions which perplex the mind and vex the soul.

"I believe the Bible because it is the only book which explains to me the riddle of the universe and tells how all these things came to be. I believe it because it shows that I am created in the image of God and am not related to beasts. I believe it because it teaches me of the nature and consequences of sin and shows the way of escape through Jesus Christ our Lord. I believe it because of its truth. Whenever you hear one say: 'I do not believe the Bible,' just walk out into the potato patch of his back yard and pull up any plant and you will find his secret sin on it as big as a grape fruit.

"I believe the Bible because of the fact of its unity. Though written over a period of fifteen hundred years, yet it bears testimony to one and the same thing. It is the inspiration of the poets, of the immortal musicians and of the works of undying art. I believe the Bible because of the fact that no such divine flow could ever come from a human source. I believe it because it sets eternally in my heart and hope springs up eternal, anew and forever.

"Oh, the Bible, the Bible, read it to me when I am a little child at my mother's knee, that it may influence my life in the plastic state. Read it to me when I face the hot temptation of youth and grapple in deadly conflict some wretched enemy of my soul. Read it to me when I am a man grown and walk down the aisles of high vaulted ambition and kneel side by side with the girl that I love at the altars of faith. Read it to me when my little children shall be born into the world that I may never provoke them to wrath lest they be discouraged. And, Oh, God, when I am dying, put on me my Lamb's Skin or white leather apron and hold the pages of this blessed Bible before my closing eyes that I may cling to its promises in death as I have in life, read it to me, Oh, read it to me. Should all the foes which men devise attack my faith with treacherous art, I'll call them vanities and lies and bring the gospel to my heart. Read it to me, Oh, read it to me."

Two great sermons are on for Monday night and Tuesday night, Monday night: "What Became of the Carpenters Who Helped Build the Ark?" and Tuesday: "The Coming of Christ," in which he will take up the prophecy about Ethiopia and the coming great world war and tell the inside of what he recently saw going on in the east in preparation for this.

Dr. Fife tells a Bible story to the children and young people every night at 7:15 and at 7:45 preaches and sings to everybody. People from all churches heard him Sunday and it is certain that it will not be long until he will have to seek a larger building some way.

Hamilton Trust's Dividend Increases

Return of 1.34 Cents Last Year Rises to 1.43 This Year

Dated April 30, and addressed to all holders of Hamilton Trust Share Certificates, the president's quarterly report announces the payment of the 15th consecutive quarterly dividend of 1.43 cents on each Hamilton Trust Share. This was compared to 1.34 cents distributed during the corresponding period last year.

E. A. Jones, president of the Hamilton Depositors Corporation, points out that on April 23, 1936 the market value of the Trust Fund had reached $889,780.50 compared to a cost of $679,621.13.

During the last quarter the Air Reduction company announced a 3 for 1 splitup. In the Hamilton Trust Fund there are 423 shares of Air Reduction which will be exchanged for 1269 shares of the new Air Reduction stock.

The report traces the growth of the first fully paid Hamilton Trust Share Account purchased on April 23, 1932. With dividends allowed to accumulate and turned back for reinvestment this $600 trust fund on April 23, 1936 had a liquidating value of $1,567.66, or an average annual accumulation of approximately 40 per cent per year.

Further reference is made in the report to the net earnings of the 30 corporations underlying the Hamilton Trust Fund which show a general increase for 1935 over the previous year of more than 35 per cent.

In the report attention is called to an article published in the Ladies Home Journal in August, 1935, under the caption "Everybody Ought to Be Rich" which expressed the opinion of John J. Raskob. Copies of this article have been reproduced by the Hamilton Depositors Corporation and are available at their home offices or through Orville W. Erringer, local representative of the firm.

Expect Puppet Ruler GENEVA, Switzerland.—(AP)—Members of the League of Nations generally anticipated Sunday night that Premier Mussolini would put a puppet emperor upon the throne of Ethiopia and quickly make a peace treaty upon his own terms.

An Italian spokesman emphasized that Italy always recognized the existence of Ethiopia. From this it was deduced that Duce will continue to recognize an independent Amharic state, though probably under Italian supervision with the remainder of the country passing to Italy in the form of a colony or mandate.

If Mussolini signs a peace treaty with a new emperor some diplomats here believe it would be difficult for the League to ignore such a treaty. From this standpoint the League's task would be simplified, they said. On the other hand, it would be difficult for the League to give its benediction to an arrangement achieved by what the League officially called a war of aggression.

Another delicate problem is when and how existing sanctions will be lifted. Some observers predicted a move to lift sanctions at the regular session of the League Council May 11. League members realize these sanctions, which are disturbing the economic life of Europe as well as that of Italy, cannot continue eternally.

Italy to Colonize ROME.—(P)—At least 400,000 of the 500,000 Italian soldiers and workmen in Africa will remain there as settlers, Premier Mussolini indicated Sunday in a speech to rural peasants.

The peasants gathered at the Venezia palace to receive presents for a long tenure on the land and excellence in agriculture. Romans continued to celebrate Emperor Haile Selassie's flight from Addis Ababa.

It Duce was in the greatest good humor and began his speech by eating a new bean from a stock of agricultural products on a table before him in the royal hall.

After praising the land, he declared: "At least 400,000 of the 500,000 men in the center of Africa are peasants who, while marching and fighting, do not forget the land. They boast about it, take some area, contrast it with Italy, and they foresee the possibility of carrying to those depopulated lands our valorous and fecund families of the Italian race."

He paid high tribute to peasants fighting in Africa, saying "they have never protested when rations were late or when it was necessary to give out water drop by drop at a temperature of 50 degrees centigrade (122 de-

Derby Is Captured by Bold Venture

Three of First Four Jockeys Penalized for Their Rough Tactics

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Bold Venture, the longest shot winner in 18 years, survived a rough-and-tumble thoroughbred battle as well as a thrilling stretch drive Saturday to capture the sixty-second Kentucky derby before the greatest crowd ever gathered for America's most spectacular horse race.

To the astonishment of the overflow throng of 62,000 spectators and confusion of the form players, Bold Venture stood off a terrific stretch challenge from Brevity, the 4 to 5 favorite, and won by a scant head in a hard-driving, whip-lashing climax to the struggle of three-year-olds.

Owned by Morton L. Schwartz, New York sportsman, Bold Venture, paid $43 for each $2 mutual ticket, as well as $11.80 to place and 6.60 to show. The winner's price, equivalent to $2.50 on the dollar, was the biggest since Extremist, the celebrated "old bones" of the turf, flashed home in front in 1918 and part the equivalent of $29.60 to one.

Bold Venture victory worth $37,725 to the colt's owner, out of a total derby purse of $48,150, climaxed a startling sequence of events.

So bitterly-waged was this battle of speed and stamina, as the 14 horses sprang from the stall gates, that William Woodward's Granville, one of the prime choices, lost his jockey, while the highly-favored Brevity was nearly knocked off his feet at the outset, and Ira (Babe) Hanford, the winning rider, was promptly suspended for rough riding, along with two other jockeys. It didn't alter the outcome of the race, but it capped the climax of another highly-disputed running of the bluegrass classic as the riders of three of the first four horses were set down, each for 15 days, as a consequence of their tactics. Suspended along with the youthful Hanford were George Burns, who rode Indian Broom, hope of the far west, into third place with C. S. Shaffer's Coldstream, three green Fahrenheits). Only the Italian race and none other could have supported this.

lengths further back. Most of the rough riding and bumping took place in the first half down the stretch while the field battled for position before reaching the first turn. Brevity, knocked off his knees within a few strides of the start, got all the worst of the early going and lost many lengths before jockey Wayne Wright could bring the favorite into his stride. Indian Broom, too, absorbed a share of bumping and was likewise in the first as the pack paced past the stands for the first time, with He Did and Coldstream on top.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

JUST A DAY OR SO AGO, THIS BOY ASKED ME IF I'D TEAR UP MY FLOOR, AND NOW YOU DEMAND THAT I DO!!

WHAT'S THE IDEA? WHY ARE YOU SO ANXIOUS FOR MY FLOOR TO BE TORN UP?

WE'RE LOOKING FOR CLUES THAT MAY HELP TO CLEAR YOUNG COOK! IF WE TORE UP THE FLOOR, AND FOUND NOTHING, THE CITY WOULD HAVE TO PAY THE DAMAGES!

Stymied

AND SO YOU DRAGGED OUT THAT OLD ORDINANCE THAT REQUIRES ME TO TEAR IT UP!

TOMORROW I'LL EXPECT TO FIND A YAWNING CAVITY WHERE THE FLOOR USED TO BE! IF I DON'T, I'M AFRAID THERE'LL BE A YAWNING CAVITY IN YOUR STORE WHERE YOU USED TO BE!!
